TO DEVELOP INDIA FOR NEW CONTROL

London, Oct. 10.—Plans formulated by the British government for granting a larger measure of self-government to the people of India were explained to the Association of Free Press correspondents by Edwin S. Montagu, secretary of state for India, Mr. Montagu, who is soon to start for India, said:

"My journey to India is the direct outcome of the government's announcement in parliament that its policy in India is to develop self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of representative government."

"Do not misunderstand me. This ideal of ours must be approached by easy stages. The man who thinks that home rule for India is a practical policy is either wholly ignorant of the situation or designedly mischievous. Steps towards responsible government will be taken at different rates by different parts of India. Great provinces will be themselves for it at different times. But the great thing is that we are going ahead firmly on the path towards the goal which we all, British and Indian alike, desire."

"The measure that we adopt must be adequate. They must show real progress. We are not prepared to offer all the people of India, but in China and India as well. Everybody wants to be assured that the world, their own little world as well as the world, is a better world after the war. India, equally with the rest of the world, has a right to demand progress, and real progress."

"So we are adopting direct and businesslike methods and I am going to India to consult with the people there and bring back the results of my conferences and inquiries to be put before parliament as the basis of a law which shall mean progress in its widest and best sense."

"We have set ourselves avowedly to the enormous task of improving the conditions and life of the people, to guarding them against famine and against war external and internal so that they might live and learn and develop their great resources unhindered and in peace."

THE ORIGIN OF THE SALUTE USED BY MILITARY MEN

Washington, Oct. 10.—The military salute had a curious origin if the tradition brought to light by United States marine corps officers at their headquarters here may be believed. The navy salutes say that the salute originated in the days of the tournament, at which a queen of beauty was chosen to preside. The knights and their equipment and all who took part in the tournament, on presenting themselves before the queen, lifted each one a hand level with the brows as though dazzled by the light of her presence.

Although its significance has been forgotten, that same salute is now used by military men in recognition of a superior rank, the marine officers say.

I. O. O. F. ENCAMPMENT COMPLETES SESSION

FINAL SESSIONS OF SEVENTIETH ANNUAL GRAND ENCAMPMENT WERE HELD THIS AFTERNOON.

MANY DELEGATES HERE

Reception to Grand Encampment and Patriarchs Militant Held Before Large Crowd at Armory on Tuesday Evening.

With an attendance of visiting members, relatives and friends of members of the local lodges of the I. O. O. F. which numbered near the three hundred mark, the reception of the delegates who were in the city to attend the seventieth annual session of the Grand Encampment of Wisconsin and the Patriarchs Militant was held at the armory on West Milwaukee street last evening. This was the first large meeting of the encampment when the wives and friends of the members of the I. O. O. F. could be present.

As the opening number on the program the decoration of chairs by the Patriarchs Militant took place. One member of the local Canton was given this honor, which is the highest which can be bestowed by the Cantons on a member. Edward Smith, one of the oldest members of the Canton in Janesville, was selected to receive the honor by the Janesville Canton. Hans Holtschhoff of Madison was the second member to receive the honor. The decoration was under the direction of the local Canton aided by the members from around the state who gathered to take part.

Previous to the assembly at the armory hall the delegates in full uniform assembled at the West Side Odd Fellows' hall and escorted the grand officers to the reception. In spite of the weather the mark was made, although the time was somewhat delayed.

Mayor Fathers, a prominent member of the I. O. O. F., gave the address of welcome to the delegates from the various parts of the state who came here for the convention. "I wish to say that the city of Janesville welcomes the delegates to the seventieth annual encampment, not only because of their large numbers and the fact that the lodge is so well known, but because the city is a double winner. He went on by saying that he was glad to give them a double welcome because he was so closely associated with the Odd Fellows. It certainly seems strange, he said, to welcome brothers into the midst as he had to do."

Mayor Fathers then gave a short talk on the city, telling of the prominent features which will be at the disposal of the delegates. He told them of the places which they will visit during their automobile trip on Wednesday morning when they will be shown the places of interest. A review of the manufacturing and agricultural conditions and what this city had to offer was also told by the speaker.

In his closing remarks the mayor dwelt upon the subject of war and told of the sacrifice which must be made. "We must all do our share now that the war is in progress, but we must not stand aside and do away with all pleasures. It is with this thought in mind that the convention was held."

In conclusion another hearty welcome was extended to the delegates to the convention and to the friends and relatives of members of the lodges to be present at the reception. Following his short talk the mayor took charge of the program for the remainder of the evening.

The main quarter, composed of C. R. Beaman, E. E. Van Pool, Stanley Harwood and William Davidson then appeared on the program and received two songs which were much appreciated by the audience.

George Gerlach, grand patriarch, then responded to the address of welcome and thanked the mayor for the cordial invitation which was given to the visiting lodge members. "It is certainly a pleasure to be here in the city of Janesville to attend this convention and I am sure that our stay here will be one of pleasure. He further told of the fact that Janesville is the home of a large number of Odd Fellows and he praised the work which is being done here. In his closing remarks he made an urgent appeal to the Odd Fellows and auxiliary lodges to listen to the appeal of the Odd Fellows from Switzerland who are in need of aid."

George Hatch then sang "The End of a Perfect Day," after which his orchestra rendered a few selections which were much enjoyed by those present.

Brigadier General Burne Pollock, department commander, was the last speaker on the program for the evening and he gave a response to the address of welcome of Mayor Fathers. He was very sincere in his remarks, thanking the Odd Fellows of Janesville and especially the committee which had the encampment in charge, and which he said was a success. He was very much pleased with the people of the city and the work which they were doing for the evening.

Although he was not listed on the program as a speaker for the evening, his inspiring talk, however, was well fitted for the occasion, that being the talk given by M. G. Jeffris. For fifteen minutes he told the people of the necessity of purchasing the second Liberty loan bonds and urged that they all do their share to make the issue a success. His talk was full of vim and determination and was well adapted to the occasion.

Dancing was then in order from eleven o'clock until twelve-thirty. The grand march which preceded the dancing was led by the chevalliers in full uniform.

Officers for the coming year were elected at the meeting of the grand encampment held Tuesday afternoon. The grand patriarch, J. M. Ostrander, Mineral Point, grand high priest; C. W. Rhodes, grand senior warden; James A. Fathers, grand scribe; J. W. Salter, grand junior warden; George Gerlach, Viola, grand representative for two years.

Members of the Department Council Patriarchs Militant were also elected Tuesday afternoon. The presidency falling to Brigadier General Burne Pollock, of Milwaukee. W. R. Day of Beloit was elected vice-president, and James A. Fathers of Janesville was elected treasurer. W. Wilson Rees was then appointed as assistant adjutant general.

Among other business matters which came before the meeting held Tuesday afternoon it was decided to make a purchase of $1,000 worth of the second Liberty loan bonds. The treasurer was instructed to make the purchase of the bonds immediately.

The convention completed its work this morning with the session of the department council at eight o'clock. The session of the council was followed by the session of the Grand Encampment at nine o'clock. Business matters which have been taken up from the previous meetings were taken up at this time and the convention officially closed for the session. An automobile ride through the city in the afternoon closed the convention. Visits to many places of interest in this city were made by those who took the opportunity of getting the automobile ride.

NAVY LEAGUE NEEDS WORKERS AT ONCE

New Shipment of One Hundred Pounds of Yarn Received, And Many Articles Are Needed.
With the receipt of one hundred pounds of yarn for the Navy League, Mrs. Arthur J. Harris, head of the local organization, makes another appeal for knitters. A large number of articles must be completed this month to satisfy the contract into which the branch entered with the government to supply the crew of the U. S. Collier Vulcan, with the necessary knitted articles.

All the articles must be sent on to the navy yard this month, and as there is much to be done, women of the city must volunteer for the work at once, to maintain the enviable reputation which Janesville has established in the Navy League work.

Twenty-three mufflers, twelve helmets and twenty-one pairs of wristlets must be knitted at once. The yarn on hand is more than sufficient to supply all workers. It is in both blue and grey, and may be obtained from Mrs. Harris at her home on Sinclair street.

At 4:30 the curtains were drawn and the candles lighted and a delicious supper served to which they all did justice. Her little friends left her many pretty remembrances and wished her more just as happy birthdays.

MILITARY TRAINING.

With the organization of a company of cadets in the Janesville high school one of the steps towards universal military training is taken right here at home. There is no use in preaching what this nation might have done already in the war had we been prepared by universal military training for the past few years, or even prepared to arm and equip the millions of men who have been called to the colors.

Instead of taking long, tedious months of drilling and study we could have placed a well-drilled and well-equipped force of men in the field in a few weeks and been ready for any emergency. There is no question but that military training, whether compulsory or voluntary, is one of the best forms of equipping a young man for future service. Even in the few weeks of camp training has shown the wonderful change that has been accomplished in the physique of the citizen soldiers.

The high school boys are going about the formation of their company in the right way. They will drill weekly in the armory occupied by the Sixteenth Separate company of the Wisconsin State Guard and will be instructed by officers and non-commissioned officers of that company. They will use the arms of the Separate company for the present, but later will doubtless be able to obtain weapons of their own.

The question of uniforms can be taken up later. The conditions of the drill manual are learned and it is probable that some means will be found whereby they can be clothed and equipped properly if they show interest in their work. It is up to the members of this organization to make the most of their opportunity for it. This war continues some of the older members will doubtless be called into normal service and the experience they have received in their weekly drills will stand them in good stead.

RESULTS OF GARDENS.

As one looks about, it is now possible to estimate the results of the nationwide movement made last spring to start home gardens. Many a back yard that never knew a hoe before this year blossomed out and brought forth real food. School gardens which were skeptics said would soon be all weeds, have really brought forth good returns. A lot of people have been given an impetus toward outdoor life and these things are some permanent results from it. Probably some of these people will now make home gardens for a regular thing, even after the war emergency is passed. Food prices are permanently high, and home vegetables will come in handy always. The work takes time that otherwise would be non-productively employed. When a man spends his leisure hours working around his garden, he is adding to the production of the country and his own comfort.

The results obtained have had a large aggregate. The 100,000,000 bushel surplus of potatoes raised in the whole country can not be wholly credited to the farmers. A large share of it is due to the home garden. The surplus is likely to become bigger still. There will be a great difference when it's seen that many families that used to draw on the grocer every week can now eat from their own stores.

It has been a common sight to see little town backyards plots as large as the ground floor of the houses, bring forth their ten bushels of potatoes. When to that you add peas and beans and corn and root crops and green stuff, the aggregate is a real help.

Now the thing to do is to keep up the good work another year. This spring's gardening campaign started late, as we did not enter the war and realize our situation until April. For next year's spring campaign there will be plenty of time for preparation. Every garden will be needed. Those who made a failure of it may think more hopefully about it before the winter is over. They will reflect that this work in the open air was not so bad after all. They could surely avoid the mistake that quenched them this year.

WOMEN AS SOLDIERS.

It was recently reported that 1,200 women of Texas and Oklahoma, mostly wives of soldiers, had volunteered to form a regiment which if necessary would fight in the trenches. Their suggestion was, however, that they might be more useful behind the lines in signal and patrol work. This has no satisfaction of patriotism was no doubt prompted by the superb heroism of the Russian female "Battalion of Death."

Women are fast developing more physical strength, and many of them would put men fighters to flight. In the early days following the discovery of the American continent, there were many tribes with women "Amazon" fighters. The explorers were afraid of them, as they fought with tremendous tenacity and fearlessness of death.

Also the day has gone by when you can set any particular limits to the things women should do. They will make their own limits. They are entering lines of work formerly closed, and in a few years will be all through our factories.

But this does not mean that it would be wise to let a regiment of them go into the front line trenches. Such a use of their devotion would be accepted as a sign of weakness by our foes. They would say that our men refused to fight, therefore the women had to, as was the case in Russia.

Fortunately our men are no slackers. They still claim fighting as their business, and they will attend to that end of it. They would not willingly expose women to the special perils arising from their sex. There are, however, a multitude of tasks behind the firing lines that women can perform, and thousands are doing these things now. Volunteer effort has its own unique quality and enthusiasm. If women feel like enlisting and forming groups for war service, there are plenty of tasks they could very well assume.

SALABLE MATERIAL.

It is surprising how much salable material people have that they could get rid of by a little newspaper for sale ad. Also how many people would like to get second hand material at cheap, fail to get it because they don't think to advertise for it.

Most people have in their store rooms discarded furniture of one kind or another, or frequently things like old wagons and farm tools. There is lots of good wear in this material, but it has been set aside because people are able to buy new things. But somebody would like to get it for a moderate price.

By a little advertising a great deal of this old material would be utilized. If you want to buy second hand stoves or chairs, or any article of household or farm use, it is usually easy to get it by a little newspaper notice, adding practically nothing in comparison with the saving that can be made.

It seems mighty queer to the politicians that the government is securing the services of prominent business men for its great war tasks, when there are so many unsuccessful men who need the jobs and would work cheap.

It may be possible to prevent certain motorists from speeding, but at least when they go out the fire alarm might be rung, so that people who desire to save their necks can get indoors.

The Germans aren't worrying about the high explosive shells we are turning out, as Kaiser Bill has positively informed them we are only going to have July Fourth firecrackers of the legal size.

It is complained that there is a great deal of social unrest, which is particularly manifest when the boss won't let any one go out to get the latest score from the world's series.

The soldiers needn't have any particular compunctions about using their bayonet, as a thoroughly dead enemy doesn't come along later and bomb the hospital where they are laid up.

Probably the Germans think that when the reward of one hundred dollars has been paid for capture of the first American, all the other Americans will get scared and run for home.

Another popular method of camouflage is putting those big fat apples on the top of the barrel and little mean, wizened nubbins down in the middle.

New York City has to elect a mayor again this fall, and all that is wanted is to find a man who will strictly pledge himself not to give the city good government.

This violent disturbance is not the people running away and posters out of town, but merely the customary send-off for the bride couple from an October wedding.

The news of a rise in price of flour reaches the bakers by telegraph, but news of a fall of flour seems to come along by messenger boy walking over the road.

The soldier boy who wants to become a general will carry out the will bucket as if that was the job he wanted above all others.

The large and stout piece of cord attached to Germany's peace offers is not quite so invisible as the Kaiser seems to think.

There is one sure way to get back some of the money being paid in taxes and that is to buy a Liberty bond and have it turning in interest.

It must be very pleasant being a Russian soldier, as they all have to take a lodge to run when there is any possible danger.

It is surprising what an aristocratic October wedding you can put over with dress suits hired for $1.50 each for the evening.

Anti-war uprisings are being fomented, but the uprisers haven't uprisen yet except to run when the police come.

OUR HOUSE.

We play at our house and have all sorts of fun,
An' there's always a game when the supper is done,
An' at our house there's marks on the walls and the stairs,
An' some terrible scratches on some of the chairs,
An' ma says that our house is really a fright,
But pa and I say that our house is all right.

At our house we laugh an' we sing an' we shout,
An' whips all the chairs an' the tables about,
An' I rattle my pa an' I get him down too,
An' he's all out of breath when the fightin' is through,
An' ma says that our house is surely a sight,
But pa and I say that our house is all right.

I've been to houses with pa where I had
To sit in a chair like a good little lad,
An' there wasn't a mark on the walls or the chairs,
An' the stuff that we have couldn't come up to theirs,
An' pa said to ma that for all of everything's shiny an' right up to date,
But pa says with all of its racket an' fuss,
He'd rather by far live at our house with us.

They never have races nor raffles or fights,
Coz they have no children to play with at nights,
An' their walls are all clean an' their curtains hang straight,
An' everything's shiny an' right up to date.

But pa says with all of its racket an' fuss,
He'd rather by far live at our house with us.

CO. M. GETTING USED TO THE CONDITIONS AT TEXAS ARMY CAMP

Station, Company M, 128th Inf., N. G. Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas.

This afternoon the boys are busy playing baseball, football and other athletic sports. We are now waiting for pay day. All the companies, now in service are to be paid before the sixth of every month. Of course we do not object to this, and we sometimes wish that this eventful day would come every week.

Captain J. W. Gilson, former commander of Battery F, First Wisconsin field artillery, and a streak of hard luck. He asserts that he is the goat. "Covered too much territory," said the captain when asked how much he must contribute to the athletic fund of this unit.

The enlisted men of the battery wanted paraffin for their athletic teams. They went to the captain and asked his advice and he advised that they take up a collection in the unit.

"I myself will give as much as you raise in the battery," said the captain to his first sergeant.

That fair day the sergeant returned and showed the commander that the men had raised $175 for the athletic fund.

"Goodbye, salary," said Captain Gilson.

"Thank you, sir," said the sergeant. Laundry day is a regular feature of the work of the fifty-seventh field artillery, Brigade at Camp MacArthur.

The spring of the case of the members of Company "M."

Tuesday is laundry day every week and on that day the men get their scrubbing brushes, soap and other implements, and scrub the dirt from their uniforms, leggings, and other equipment.

Brigadier General Haan, now commanding the thirty-second division at Camp MacArthur, is also commanding officer of the fifty-seventh field artillery Brigade. He started the "laundry day" stunt and is insisting that all of his command take part.

Seven of the men get rather lazy and want to send their laundry work to the laundry down town but this practice is to be done away with.

"There is one laundry instructor to each battery of field artillery," said General Haan.

About 3,500 men take the work and all must become proficient in the laundrying of their own clothes and uniforms and portions of their equipment that require frequent washing.

Every man of this command must spend an hour and a half each day in laundry work according to the new order. The men work in reliefs and officers of the various companies and batteries are detailed to supervise the work.

Soldiers stationed at Camp MacArthur, who are entitled to vote in their homes, will be allowed to cast their vote in Waco. The commanding general of this camp has issued an order to make arrangements to permit all such men to register and cast their ballots, providing they are entitled to vote at the election on November 6, 1917. This applies only to men who have been residents of their home state for a sufficient length of time to entitle them to vote in that state.

All officers must be present at all drills, says an order issued by the War Department, and given out at headquarters of Thirty-second division at Camp MacArthur.

All company officers must be present with their companies when assembling for drill sounds," says the order. "Regimental and battalion commanders also must be present to supervise the formations." The order states:

An intensive course of training is mapped out in the War Department orders. This course is to extend over a period of sixteen weeks, according to present plans, and it is supposed that by that time orders will be received here for the moving of this division.

Forty hours weekly will be the time required for each organization to put in, in the field, according to the new bulletin.

Wednesday and Saturday afternoons are left free for recreation and athletic events and for the drilling of backward men or units. We are glad when Wednesday and Saturday afternoons come around.

The boys are now soliciting for Liberty Bonds in our company. Many of the men are considering this good investment and availing themselves of this opportunity to save money and thus aid their country.

One thousand dollars have been subscribed already in this company. Lieutenant Pelton is chairman of the committee with Sergeants Kamps and Beard and Bugler Searl assisting him. Today was a good day to bring up this matter as it is pay day and the men, of course, will not all be broke.

Soldiers of 1st Camp MacArthur will receive return of the game for the world's series baseball championship, which opens today at Chicago between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Giants, on a giant score board erected by the Michigan signal corps in Section A.

A special wire will record the game, play by play, and each move will be flashed to the camp ten seconds after it is made. The returns will start coming at two o'clock this afternoon.

The general public has been invited. We are all interested in these games and those who are used to going to see the series will be right on the job at that score-board.

Ambrose Wyrick, assistant secretary of the army Y. M. C. A. building No. 42, announced Friday that beginning Monday night at 7 o'clock, the first class of 200 soldiers will begin a course in French. The complete course consists of thirty lessons, at five cents a lesson, and each class will meet twice weekly.

There is a wireless station at Camp MacArthur. Few people in the city of Waco realize that there is such a station here and not many of the soldiers at Camp MacArthur know that messages are being received from all parts of the south at the station just established here.

LIBERTY LOAN JUMPS $30,000 IN ONE DAY

HUNDRED THOUSAND MARK IS PASSED IN FIRST TWO DAYS OF ACTIVE CAMPAIGNING IN CITY.

CITY IS RESPONDING

Appeals of Team Members, Speakers and Committees Making Themself Felt.

Subscribed yesterday... $20,000
Total to date... $117,000

With a gain of practically thirty thousand dollars in one day, prospects of reaching the goal of $1,000,000 for this city's subscription to the Second Liberty Loan, became more evident last night, and the eight campaign teams started out again today in an attempt to finish up their work before the end of this week.

The canvass to date has been systematic, leaving no store or office in the business sections untouched, and soliciting every member of the city's mercantile population. Similarly the campaign has been going forward amongst the factories, where specialized plans have been adopted to reach the men, and in the residential sections, where the work of the women's teams is beginning to make itself felt in the number of subscriptions which are coming in from homes.

Members of the women's teams met this noon to discuss the work of the last few days and to outline the activity for the future. Possible redistribution of teams in some cases, and details of campaigning occupied most of the attention of the group. Some inclination toward neglect of some classes who are usually heavily taxed was urged to be thrown out at once, and it was pointed out that if the government did not raise the money through bond issues, it would get it by taxation. The government has to have the money and this is the realization that is to be impressed on the people during the remainder of the campaign.

People the fact that many people did their utmost on the last loan, the same ones are coming back again for more bonds; in most of these cases, real sacrifices are involved. The three billion dollar loan is more than twice that of the first loan, and to bring it out calls for increasingly more patriotic sacrifice and energy on the part of the campaigners.

Practically every display window in the city has now been decorated with one or more of the big Liberty Loan posters, and for the first time the campaign is actively in progress. The thorough organization of the work preparatory to the canvass, and the placing of a position to push the work with a despatch and a success that would have been impossible under less favorable circumstances.

Appeals are being made upon every occasion by the team members, by speakers, by members of the county organization, and by the women's teams. The first time Mr. Jeffris spoke, most eloquently to the members of the Twilight club last evening, with the result that a number of the subscriptions of members have been increased today.

NEW POSTAGE RATES IN EFFECT ON NOV. 2

First Class Mail Advanced to Three Cents an Ounce—Postal Cards Will Require a Two Cent Stamp.

Increased rates in postage as provided by the war revenue law will go into effect throughout the United States on November 2. Postmaster J. J. Cunningham of the local postoffice has received the orders from the postmaster general in Washington to the effect that this change will be made on that date.

According to the new rates the charge for first class mail will be three cents an ounce or fraction thereof. Letters will be charged at two cents an ounce or fraction thereof, including delivery at a letter carrier office. A drop letter is one which is addressed for delivery outside the office where it is posted. This also includes the rural delivery routes leading out from Janesville.

Postal cards will be transmitted through the mails at a charge of two cents each, including the cost of manufacture. Private mailing cards with written messages are also permissible but they must have a two cent stamp. Former residents of Janesville who have sent cards and letters postpaid after November 2 have the correct number of stamps on them. All letters sent after that date will be returned to the writer.

This new rate of three cents for sending a letter and two cents for sending a postcard will apply to the United States and its possessions as well as to the countries which have a domestic rate with this country. Subscribers to the Janesville Gazette and other papers will be affected by the rate.

Following the new plan of the postmaster general including the state into districts for the control of the postoffice activities, the central accounting office for Rock county, all the third and fourth class offices in this district, twelve in number, will be responsible to the Janesville office, which is a first class office.

All reports and accounts must be sent to the office here so that the report can be sent to Washington. The office here will make up the report for the entire district and forward it to the postmaster general. All supplies, such as stamps, envelopes, etc., will also be purchased by the office in this district from the local office.

This plan was adopted in order that the added expense of checking reports in Washington could be eliminated. The office here will be greatly decreased and the accounts will be more easily to handle.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. ROULTON

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.

It was a wonderful evening—just such an evening as would tempt a young ivory bean to pour two or three gallons of soft-boiled conversation into the ear of his loved one.

My wife and I were sitting on the fire escape.

Admiring our unequalled view of the gas works.

"Wife," I asked, "do you remember the night I proposed to you and told you how happy I would make you and how we would have everything? Well, this night reminds me of that time."

"It is not the night that reminds me of your proposal," she replied.

"Then what does remind you of it?" I asked tenderly.

"The gas works," she replied.

The knave has again expressed his good opinion of God.

Amusedly waiting to hear whether his feeling is mutual.

Right in the next house to us there is a girl who calls her steady "Hun." We've got to take another look at that guy and see if he is an alien enemy or just a plain lovesick.

He sounds sane, but you never can tell.

A neutral has about as much chance nowadays as an innocent bystander who is attending a boiler explosion.

The festive gent, who's always seen at his midnight kade in smart clothes.

Has been out back. He's changed his tack and trimmed his sail in divers ways.

The price to sup has been moved up beyond the common piker's means.

And he must live to some nearby hash-house, low browed, for pork and beans.

The luscious roast and quail on toast have got to be such swell affairs.

Account of war that they are for none but munition millionaires.

A dollar bill is very still. It makes no noise, nor does a five.

You've got to spring the twenty thing to make a water look alive.

If prices keep on growing steep and even footpicks means expense.

We'll have to go right back, you know, to honest food and common sense.

IF AUGHT CAN MAKE US SICK IT'S A HAND OF WHITE HOUSE PICKETS.

Yesterday we saw a bright lady knitting a washrag for a soldier. The cost of this washrag when completed will be about as follows:

Mental anguish while learning to knit, $100; material, 15 cents; time, $3. Total, $103.15.

Good will, non-askid, non-puncturable washrags can be bought in the store for a nickel apiece.

Efficiency, thou art a jewel.

HOME, JAMES.

Mr. Gerard, having been honored by King George, has the title "Sir" and now that he has got it he doesn't know what to do with it.

Throw it at a cat, Jim, and stick Sweden in all out of the pleasant Smith. "He who does not fight shall not eat."

CO. M. GETTING USED TO CONDITIONS AT TEXAS ARMY CAMP

may be used as it is a part of the night signal work of the Michigan signal outfit.

More than one million dollars will have been paid out to men of the unit at this camp before the day is over with. The new style of paying has gone into effect this month and all units (according to the new war department regulation) must be paid of before the night of the sixth of the month. This makes it obligatory that all units be paid before tonight.

It may be that some outfits will not be paid until Monday, as the new system has not been perfected to such an extent that it is certain that the machinery of paying is running smoothly.

But the officers in charge say that there is no doubt in future as to the completion of payments before the sixth day of every month.

The 125th Infantry will be paid today. In the first battalion alone the men will draw $40,000. This, as an average, gives to this outfit alone about $120,000.

The Signal Corps, the hospital units, the artillery and all the former cavalry units will have been paid before night.

The new pay system is for the commanders of each regiment to draw the amount of money due the men of each regiment and to pay off in separate units. Heretofore the army paymaster had to make the rounds and sometimes it was near the middle of the month before the men were paid.

No more. By the sixth of the month all will be paid in future. Our men are now standing around the head of the street patiently waiting for "Pay Day" to blow. It must be getting this long letter short and get ready to spend some of my money.

The detail for today was as follows:

Police Officer—Lentzen, Raul.

In charge of quarters—Sergeant Grimshaw.

Patrol—Corporal Maine, Privates Banker, M. Berger, O. Berger, Bickle, Brown, Burhans, Chesak and Christensen.

The guard detail for today was as follows:

Sergeant Novaski, Privates O'Connor, Schultz, Berkalew, T. Christensen, B. Christensen, Clarke, Corrado, Daewiler, F. Hill, Lee, Meyers.

Company Notes.

Sergeant Planery is contemplating engaging the services of a young lady to keep up his correspondence. It is said that all the girls between Camp Douglas and Waco are requesting his photograph.

Mechanic Thiele is busy gathering addresses of young ladies to write to and is busy as a bee writing to the fair damsels.

Sergeant Strampe is getting fat on the good eats that are served here.

The Edgerton boys will soon be with us. They are a good bunch of fellows and we sure will be glad to have them with us.

KEEP COOL IF ROBBED. URGES CHIEF OF POLICE

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Cleveland, O., Oct. 10.—Crime may be cut down, but it can't be wiped out entirely. This is the position the Cleveland police department take in asking co-operation of the public.

Police Inspector Smith asks Cleveland citizens to:

Don't become appalled if a robber accosts you and thrusts a revolver in your face, demanding your money.

Be cool.

Scrutinize him with a critical eye.

Remember every mark of identification.

And then, after the unpleasant ordeal is ended, call up the police and describe the culprit.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

On days when the weather is unsettled and there is no way of telling just when the sun is coming out, the feminine players gather unto themselves in one corner of the Fort Lee studios and have a knitting fest. Among the best knitters in the colony is little June Caprice, who can and does make socks, wristlets, mufflers and other things for the boys in the trenches. In the accompanying picture Miss Caprice is shown at work.

SMILE S.

The smile is popular with the movie mañon. It covers a multitude of historic shortcomings. All the June Caprice enthusiasts asks of her favorite is to wrinkle up her features and show her teeth in the manner that charms. All George Walsh has to do to please his followers is smile and smile and smile.

Franklyn Farnum's growing popularity may be ascribed to his many "smiling" roles. William Desmond seems to be following along the same lines. Douglas Fairbanks seems to be getting more out of the smile than any screen celebrity since the days of John Bunny. Billie Burke's smile was wiser. Billie was she an actress or just a cutie? The profound thinkers asked. But the screen devotees were wiser. Billie smiled out at him and that was enough.

MYERS THEATRE.

Theatre goers who fail to find anything new and entertaining in the theatres these days will have to admit that they are wrong. Lord Bryant of moving picture fame is presenting his Movie Show of Wonders at the Myers theatre on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Never before in the history of moving pictures has anything of this kind ever been shown in Janesville. Featuring a galaxy of moving picture stars to appear in person with Mr. Wm. Buckley known in the moving picture world as handsome Billy and formerly co-star and leading man with Mary Pickford. Rose Burkhart the lady with the La Sylph form, weighing 300 lbs. of Seir fame, and Dave Weber the funny Jewish copper of Keystone and a lot of other movie attractions will be there. No expense was spared in bringing down a real movie studio to the Myers theatre.

At times we wonder looking at moving pictures how we can enact an impossible scene for instance, tumbling out of a 10 story building without being killed or boarding a train with ease going at the rate of 60 miles an hour. Other spectacular and hair raising scenes that the humble mind could never conceive or dream of those mysteries will be shown and explained to you at the Myers theatre.

Trees Only Need Proper Care.

We hear much these days of tree surgery, but a late bulletin of the Missouri Botanical Gardens calls attention to the fact that if trees are properly planted, and cared for, there would never be need of tree surgery for disease, etc., but only for the necessary pruning to be done each year.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" the brain and how they "pick up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

Unshaken Testimony

There is the test of truth. And Dana's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Janesville. No Janesville resident who suffers backache, or annoying kidney and bladder ills, can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Mrs. Emille Hall, 285 Riverside St., Janesville, says: "I suffered terribly from pains through the small of my back. I had severe pains in my head and my kidneys didn't act regularly. I felt miserable until I got Dana's Kidney Pills, at the People's Drug Co. Two or three boxes made me well again."

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER, Mrs. Hall said: "I still use Dana's Kidney Pills once in a while and they keep my kidneys in good condition." Price 80c at all druggists. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Dana's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hall has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Women of Middle Age

Many distressing Ailments experienced by them are Alleviated by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Here is Proof by Women who Know.

Lowell, Mass.—"For the last three years I have been troubled with the Change of Life and the bad feelings common at that time. I was in a very nervous condition, with headaches and pain a good deal of the time so I was unfit to do my work. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it has helped me in every way. I am not nearly so nervous, no headache or pain. I must say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy any sick woman can take."—Mrs. MARGARET QUINN, Rear 250 Worthen St., Lowell, Mass.

She Tells Her Friends to Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies.

North Haven, Conn.—"When I was 45 I had the Change of Life which is a trouble all women have. At first it didn't bother me but after a while I got bearing down pains. I called in doctors who told me to try different things but they did not cure my pains. One day my husband came home and said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash?' Well, I got them and took about 10 bottles of Vegetable Compound and could feel myself regaining my health. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and it has done me a great deal of good. Any one coming to my house who suffers from female troubles or Change of Life, I tell them to take the Pinkham remedies. There are about 30 of us here who think the world of them."—Mrs. FLORENCE ISABELL, Box 107, North Haven, Conn.

Beyond the Frontier

A Romance of Early Days in the Middle West

I had not the faintest idea that I had heard Cassion cry out something just behind me, and, surprised as I was by the sudden appearance of D'Artigny, I yet realized the necessity for swift speech.

"Monsieur," I whispered. "Do not talk, but listen. You would serve me?"

"Yes?"

"Then ask nothing, and above all do not quarrel with Cassion. I will tell you everything the moment I can see you safely alone. Until then do not seek me. I have your word?"

He did not answer, for the commissaire grasped my arm, and thrust himself in between us, his action so swift that the impact of his body thrust D'Artigny back a step. I saw the hand of the younger man close on the knife hilt at his belt, but was quick enough to avert the hot words burning his lips.

"A bit rough, Monsieur Cassion," I cried, laughing merrily, even as I released my arm. "Why so much haste? I was near falling, and it was but courtesy which led the Sieur d'Artigny to extend me his hand. It does not please me for you to be ever seeking a quarrel."

There must have been that in my face which cooled him, for his hand fell, and his thin lips curled into sarcastic smile.

"If I seemed hasty," he exclaimed, "it was more because I was blocked by that boor of a Cheret yonder, and it angered me to have this young gamecock ever at hand to push in. What think you you were employed for, fellow—an escort of dames? Was there not work enough in the camp yonder, that you must be testing your fancy graces every time a bonny lady there was no maid look in D'Artigny's eyes as he frowned him, yet he

I walked beside him among the trees, and across the patch of grass to where the tent stood against a background of rock. D'Artigny had disappeared, although I glanced about in search for him, as Cassion drew aside the tent flap, and peered within. He appeared pleased at the way in which his orders had been executed.

"This very neat, indeed, monsieur," I said pleasantly, glancing inside. "I owe you my thanks."

"'Twas brought for my own use," he confessed, encouraged by my graciousness. "For, as you know, I had no previous warning that you were to be of our party. Please step within."

I did so, yet turned instantly to prevent his following me. Already I had determined on my course of action, and now the time had come for me to speak him clearly; yet now that I had definite purpose in view it was no part of my game to anger the man.

"Monsieur," I said soberly. "I must beg your mercy. I am but a girl, and alone. It is true I am your wife by law, but the change has come so suddenly that I am yet dazed. I appeal to you as a gentleman."

He stared into my face, scarcely comprehending all my meaning.

held his temper, recalling my plea, no doubt, and I hastened to step between and furnish him excuse for silence.

"Surely you do wrong to blame the young man, monsieur, as but for his aid I would have slipped yonder. There is no cause for hard words, nor do I thank you for making me a subject of quarrel. Is it my tent they erect yonder?"

"Ay," there was little graciousness to the tone, for the man had the nature of a bully. "Twas my thought that it be brought for your use; and if Monsieur d'Artigny will consent to stand aside, it will give me pleasure to escort you thither."

The younger man's eyes glanced from the other's face into mine, as though seeking reassurance. His hat was instantly in his hand, and he stepped backward, bowing low.

"The wish of the lady is sufficient," he said quietly, and then stood again erect, facing Cassion. "Yet," he added slowly, "I would remind monsieur that while I serve him as a guide, it is as a volunteer, and I am also an officer of France."

"Of France? Pah! of the renegade La Salle."

"France has no more loyal servant. Monsieur Cassion, in all this western land—not is he renegade, for he holds the Illinois at the king's command."

"Field it—yes; under Frontenac, but not now."

"We will not quarrel over words, yet not even in Quebec was it claimed that higher authority than La Barre's had led to recall. Louis had never interfered, and it is De Tonty, and not De Baugis who is in command at St. Louis by royal order. My right to respect of rank is clearer than your own, monsieur, so I beg you curb your temper."

"You threaten me?"

"No; we who live in the wilderness do not talk, we act. I obey your orders, do your will, on this expedition, but as a man, not a slave. In all else we stand equal, and I accept insult from no living man. 'Tis well that you know this, monsieur."

The hat was back upon his head, and he had turned away before Cassion found answering speech.

"Mon Dieu! I'll show the pup who is the master," he muttered. "Let him disobey once, and I'll stretch his dainty form as I would an Indian cur."

"Monsieur," I said, drawing his attention to my presence. "'Tis of no interest to me your silly quarrel with Sieur d'Artigny. I am weary with the long journey, and would rest until food is served."

I walked beside him among the trees, and across the patch of grass to where the tent stood against a background of rock. D'Artigny had disappeared, although I glanced about in search for him, as Cassion drew aside the tent flap, and peered within. He appeared pleased at the way in which his orders had been executed.

"This very neat, indeed, monsieur," I said pleasantly, glancing inside. "I owe you my thanks."

"'Twas brought for my own use," he confessed, encouraged by my graciousness. "For, as you know, I had no previous warning that you were to be of our party. Please step within."

I did so, yet turned instantly to prevent his following me. Already I had determined on my course of action, and now the time had come for me to speak him clearly; yet now that I had definite purpose in view it was no part of my game to anger the man.

you think I play? I will have the kiss—or more."

Furious as the man was I felt no fear of him, merely an intense disgust that his hands should touch me, an indignation that he should offer me such insult. He must have read all this in my eyes, for he made but the one move, and I flung his hand aside as easily as though it had been that of a child. I was angry, so that my lips trembled, and my face grew white, yet it was not the anger that stormed.

"Enough, monsieur—go!" I said, and pointed to where the fires reddened the darkness. "Do not dare speak to me again this night."

An instant he hesitated, trying to muster courage, but the bully in him failed, and with an oath, he turned away and vanished. It was nearly dark then, and I sat down on a blanket at the entrance, and waited, watching the figures between me and the river. I did not think he would come again, but I did not know; it would be safer if I could have word with Cheret. A soldier brought me food, and when he returned for the tins I made him promise to seek my uncle and send him to me.

My only faith in Hugo Cheret rested in his natural resentment of Cassion's treachery relative to my father's fortune. He would feel that he had been cheated, deceived, deprived of his rightful share of the spoils.

I had been alone for an hour, already convinced that the soldier had failed to deliver my message, when my uncle finally emerged from the shadows, and announced his presence. He appeared a huge, shapeless figure, his very massiveness yielding me a feeling of protection, and I arose and joined him. His greeting proved the unhappiness of his mind.

"So you sent for me—why? What has happened between you and Cassion?"

"No more than occurred between us yonder in Quebec, when I informed him that I was his wife in name only."

I answered quietly. "Do you blame me now that you understand his purpose in this marriage?"

"How know you the truth of all you have said?" he asked. "Where learned you of this wench?"

"By overhearing conversation while hidden behind the curtain in La Barre's office. He spoke freely with his aide, and later with Cassion. It was my discovery there which led to the forced marriage, and our being sent with this expedition."

"You heard alone?"

"So they thought, and naturally believed marriage would prevent my ever bearing witness against them. But I was not alone."

"Mon Dieu! Another heard?"

"Yes, the Sieur d'Artigny."

Cheret grasped my arm, and in the glare of the fire I could see his excitement pictured in his face.

"Who? That lad? You were in hiding together? And did he realize what was said?"

"That I do not know," I answered, "for we have exchanged no word since. When my presence was discovered D'Artigny escaped unseen through the open window. I need to meet him again that these matters may be explained, and that I may learn just what he overheard. It was to enlist your aid that I sent for you."

"To bring the lad here?"

"No; that could not be done without arousing the suspicion of Cassion. The two are already on the verge of quarrel. You must find some way of drawing the commissaire aside—not tonight, for there is plenty of time before us, and I am sure we are being watched now—and that will afford me opportunity."

"But why may I not speak him?"

"You?" I laughed. "He would be likely to talk with you. A sweet message you sent him in Quebec."

"I was drunk, and Cassion asked it of me."

"I thought as much; the coward makes you pull his chestnuts from the fire. Do you give me the pledge?"

"Ay! although 'tis not my way to play sweet, when I should enjoy to wring the fellow's neck. What was it La Barre said?"

"That just before he died my father's property was restored to him by the king, but the royal order was never recorded. It exists, but where I do not know, nor do I know as yet for what purpose it was concealed. My marriage to Cassion must have been an afterthought, for he is but a creature of La Barre's. It is through him the greater villains seek control; but, no doubt, he was a willing tool enough, and expects his share."

"Why not let me choke the truth out of him then? Bah! it would be easy."

"For two reasons," I said earnestly. "First, I doubt if he knows the true conspiracy, or can lay hands on the king's restoration. Without that we have no proof of fraud. And second, coward though he may be, his very fear might yield him courage. No, Uncle Cheret, we must wait and learn these facts through other means than force."

"Tis back in Quebec, not in this wilderness, we will find the needed proofs. What I ask of you is, pretend to know nothing; do not permit Cassion to suspicion that I have confided in you. We must encourage him to talk by saying nothing which will put him on guard."

"You will try, as his wife, to win confession?" he asked finally, grasping vaguely the one thought occurring to him.

TO LIVE LONG

A recipe given by a famous physician for long life was: "Keep the kidneys in good order! Try to eliminate through the skin and intestines the poisons that otherwise clog the kidneys. Avoid eating meat as much as possible; avoid too much salt, alcohol, tea. Try a milk and vegetable diet. Drink plenty of water, and exercise so you sweat. The skin helps to eliminate the toxic poisons and uric acid."

For those past middle life, or those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation, as backache, scalding "water," or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, "rusty" joints, stiffness, get Anuric at the drug store. This is a wonderful eliminator of uric acid and was discovered by Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. If your druggist does not keep it send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for trial package and you will know that it is many times more potent than lithia and that it dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

WOULD TESTIFY.

Green Bay, Wis.—"About ten years ago I got very weak and run down. A friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which I did. Two bottles cured me and I have been strong and healthy ever since. In fact, I am never sick only with colds, headaches, and I use 'Pleasant Pellets' to cure these, which they never fail to do. Dr. Pierce's medicines are the very best for what they are recommended. I advise all weak women to take 'Favorite Prescription.'—Mrs. Emil Servais, 529 N. Madison St.
